Russian Relates Chiller

Former Police Chief Gives Eerie Details Of How He Betrayed A Million Countrymen

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A former Russian secret police commander told in chilling detail today how he helped betray and deport a million of Stalin's subjects because they wanted independence from the Kremlin.

Lt. Col. Grigori Stepanovich Burlitski, 36, emerged into the glare of television floodlights to tell of racial murder in the Soviet Union. He has been hidden in the West for a year by U.S. intelligence agents. He deserted to the West last June but it was kept secret until he testified today before a U.S. congressional committee on Communist aggression, now in session here.

As the small, blue-eyed Cossack left the crowded committee room for the lunch recess, Chairman Charles J. Kersten (R-Wis.) told everyone to remain seated for one minute. This was to allow guards to whisk Burlitski safely away.

Speaking through an interpreter, Burlitski described how rebellious non-Russian peoples like the Checheno-Ingush Mountain people in the Caucasus and the Tatars of the Crimea were trapped by Soviet security forces in merciless "Trojan-horse" operations.

He told how a million people were fooled into believing Soviet Russian overtures of friendship so that they dropped their guard. Then they found themselves herded into cattle cars for deportation to the wastes of Siberia under the guns of men they had been entertaining as guests.

Burlitski said the Kremlin could not tolerate any independence movements so simply wiped out whole regions, leaving the land silent and desolate until new settlers could be found.

Burlitski said the Kremlin during World War II wiped out the tiny autonomous state of Checheno-Ingush in the Caucasus. Its 500,000 independence-loving people were deported "to distant and unknown parts of the Soviet Union," he said.

He said the people were rounded up Sept. 23, 1944, under the guise of a festival celebrating Red army victories. Stripped of all weapons, they were given an hour to pack, then loaded in railroad cars which were locked and sealed.

Burlitski said the man in charge of the operation was Lt. Gen. Ivan A. Serov, who also was responsible for ordering mass deportations from the Baltic republics after they were seized in 1940. Serov was appointed chairman of the Soviet committee of state security a few months ago.

'Hopper Spray Must Be Summer Strength to Work

Folks spraying for grasshopper control must use the summer strength mixtures to get control. With aldrin, that is just double that recommended a month ago when the hoppers were small.

These mixtures are listed near the bottom of the sheet available at the Extension Office, at several stores selling insecticides and printed earlier in this paper. A weaker mixture printed higher on the sheet is for bait.

The recommended mixtures are listed again below:

- Amount Per Acre
- 1 pint 25% aldrin emulsifiable concentrate.
- 1 pint 25% heptachlor emulsifiable concentrate.
- 1 quart 40% chlordane emulsifiable concentrate.
- 1 1/2 gallon 65% toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate.

Recover Body in Lake
LAKE OZARK, Mo. (AP)—A body identified by the state highway patrol as that of Mrs. Alice Lamberty, 25, of Fremont, Neb., was recovered today from the Lake of the Ozarks. It was picked up by a vacationer about three quarters of a mile from the scene of a pleasure boat accident May 28.

An 18-Year Record

Saturday's 103 degree reading in Sedalia marked it as the hottest day in Sedalia in almost two years since July 27, 1952—was also made it the hottest June day since back in 1936. The June peak for all time, 105 degrees, was registered in 1936. Sunday's 100 seemed as hot as Saturday's 103 for everything and everybody except the thermometers.

Fair and hot tonight and Tuesday. High Tuesday near 100. Low tonight in upper seventies.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 75; 89 at 7 p. m. and 100 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 95, low 67, two years ago 98, 74; three years ago 88, 63; rainfall 3.90 inches.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 55.9, fall 1.

Second in Series on City Government—

Council Members Work by Groups

Eight Committees, Designated by Mayor, Work on All Problems And Projects Before Any Ordinance or Action

Carlton Kelly, president pro tem of the Sedalia City Council recently explained the duties and functions of members of the city council in an open meeting of all city officials.

The Democrat is carrying the reports by these officers as a public service to acquaint the people with how their city government operates.

Following is the text of Kelly's summary:

"Your City Council is composed of eight members, two representing each ward and serving a two-year term. At the first regular meeting following election to office, the new council elects one of its members to serve as president pro tem. If the mayor is unable to attend a council meeting, the president pro tem then presides.

"At the first regular meeting, the mayor, at his discretion, appoints eight committees, each councilman serving as a chairman of one committee and a member of two others.

"The legislative duties of the City Council, as mentioned by the mayor, are not as simple as it may appear. Behind almost every ordinance is the time of the members of two committees in preparatory work and the time of the entire council in consideration of the needs resulting in the ordinance. Many times, several weeks of consideration are required before an ordinance is ready for passage.

"There are eight standing committees. To be effective, each committee must study thoroughly the operations of the department the committee serves. Keeping informed on the departmental operations and assisting the department head upon his request is a time-consuming requirement.

"The proper function of each committee is to work with the department head in the solution of major problems, establishing departmental policies, considering material and equipment needs. The committee, at regular meetings of the council, presents these matters to the entire council for consideration and action.

"The committee, or any member of the committee, does not have the authority to interfere in (Please turn to Page 12, Col. 4.)

Say Symington Lost Position In Hearings

Survey of Long TV Dispute, However, Is Not Conclusive

WASHINGTON (AP)—What did 36 days under the television spotlight do for the political futures of the seven senators investigating the McCarthy-Army row?

Not much change in their home states, is the general finding of an Associated Press survey among newspaper editorials and among Republican and Democratic political leaders across the country.

There were wide differences of opinion, of course, depending on who was expressing his view. But by and large the investigating senators were mentioned by name—and when they were it did not seem part of any groundswell to sweep them out of office.

The only suggestions that any of the seven might really be hurt by the public probe of the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and top Army officials applied to Sen. Symington (D-Mo.). And those suggestions came mostly from Republicans.

Symington has been mentioned but not announced as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956. He reportedly tangled with McCarthy during the hearings, and at one point it was disclosed Secretary of the Army Stevens had consulted the Missourian on the way McCarthy was treating army witnesses.

Some—mostly Republicans—say the hearings swamped Symington's presidential chances. But in Missouri, there seems little evidence of those who voted for him before would not do so again.

There were a few critical remarks about the other Senate investigations subcommittee members. A Democrat says the public proceedings showed up "inadequacies" of Sen. Mundt (D-SD).

Mundt, who banged the gavel as chairman at the hearings, is trying for reelection this year. So is the Arkansas Democrat, Sen. McClellan.

Symington isn't up for election this year. The AP survey points up that in broad terms, and with some exceptions:

1. A majority of Democratic state chairmen and members of the Democratic National Committee say their party has been helped or the GOP hurt by the lengthy televised inquiry into the dispute between McCarthy and Stevens, both Republicans, and their aides.
2. The largest group of GOP officials contends the hearings had little political reaction in any direction and that any harm their party may have suffered won't last long.

Some newspapers also say the hearings have little political effect. But most of those attempting to size up the political results say the advantage is to the Democrats.

The survey reached 107 Democrats and 98 Republicans who are at the top levels of state and national politics.

A comparatively small number of them, or of the editorials in newspapers, mention Symington. Even so, there are far more diags at him than at any other member of the investigating committee.

Elmer C. Nelson, Massachusetts state Republican chairman, and Charles B. Sullivan, GOP chairman for New Hampshire, agree that Symington's chances for a presidential nomination "are now nil" as a result of the hearings.

Texas GOP Chairman John Q. B. Adams calls the hearings "very detrimental" to any hopes Symington might have for the nomination. The Boston Daily Record said, "We are genuinely sorry for the damage that Sen. Symington has done to himself and profoundly hope that later on he will be able to overcome and minimize it."

The San Diego Union contended "Sen. Symington was especially flagrant in violating the expected spirit of fairness as he attempted to use the McCarthy issue as a springboard for his own presidential aspirations."

J. C. Penney Shows Satisfactory Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—J. C. Penney, chairman of the board of the national chain store concern which bears his name, was reported by his physician in "satisfactory" condition today. Penney remained under treatment at George Washington University Hospital, where he was taken last Thursday suffering from pneumonia.

Change Hiway 50 Through St. Louis Co.

Route 66 Will Be Used to Speed Vehicle Movement

Old U. S. Highway 50 from Grays Summit, Missouri, to the Mississippi River is to be discontinued according to Mr. Rex M. Whitton, Chief Engineer of the Missouri Highway Department.

In a letter to E. V. Fryhoff, president of the Missouri Highway 50 Association, he said that formal approval of moving the U. S. 50 markers to the route used by U. S. 66 had been received from the American Association of State Highway Officials. All changes in the U. S. routings must be approved by the association.

Moving of U. S. 50 in St. Louis County had been requested by the Missouri Highway 50 Association to facilitate movement of through traffic. Old Highway 50 passes through many congested districts in St. Louis and in St. Louis County. This, plus many sharp turns, made it undesirable for through traffic.

The Missouri Highway Department made a thorough study of driving time required plus other factors, resulting in a decision to make the change.

Old U. S. 50 and towns along U. S. 50 in Missouri will benefit greatly by increased tourist traffic as the change will enable cross country motorists to get through St. Louis with a minimum delay. The change in St. Louis is in keeping with a national trend to facilitate movement of through traffic according to Mr. Fryhoff.

The Highway 50 markers will be moved shortly after the first of the year and prior to printing of a new Missouri highway map, said Mr. Whitton.

Group Returning From Sedalia Hurt in Accident

Eight persons, some returning from Sedalia, were injured at the intersection of 85th Street and U. S. Highway No. 71, Kansas City, early Sunday night, one of them being in a dangerous condition.

They are: Albert Baughman, 10, Topeka; Daniel Baughman, 7, Topeka; Mrs. Ethel Morton, 53, Topeka; Mrs. Lillian Flisk, 22, Toledo, Ore.; Mrs. Rose Fink, 75, Los Angeles; Mrs. Marjean Baughman, 30, Topeka; and Joseph C. Morton, 57, Topeka.

Passengers in the first car, J. C. Morton, Mrs. Ethel Morton, Mrs. Rose Fink, Mrs. Marjean Baughman, Albert Baughman and Daniel Baughman, had just returned from Sedalia where they attended a Morton family reunion at the home of Porter Morton, 406 East Fifth.

The only report known of their condition as of now is that Albert Baughman, 10, is in serious condition at the General Hospital, and that none of the others has been dismissed.

GOP Meets Tonight

The local Republican Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the assembly room of the Courthouse. The program will include an introduction of candidates. All members and others interested are being urged to attend.

Sedalia Base Vets to Meet Here Sunday

Old Gang Plans Grow as More Men Learn of Reunion

Sedalia will probably see more "Vets" of the old Sedalia Army Air Field, now the Sedalia Air Force Base, than they have in years with the coming of a reunion to be held Sunday at Liberty Park. An organization will probably be formed by these veterans of the "battle of Sedalia" during World War II.

Recent articles appearing in various newspapers, calling attention to the reunion, have brought more queries than were anticipated by the co-chairmen, R. F. Stallings and L. L. Hepburn, two "Old M.P.'s" who now make their homes in Sedalia.

Surprising as it may seem, the chairman report they have received numerous requests regarding accommodations, what the reunion will be and how many are expected. The indications of "old timers" coming here from various parts of the country is such they are making changes in their plans to take care of the throng.

"We might have 100 and we might end up with a 1,000," they report, "but we'll take care of everybody somehow and somehow."

For the past couple of years about 10 or 12 couples who have been living in Sedalia have been getting together once or twice a year and they hit upon the idea of a big Fourth of July reunion. "We asked for it," Stallings said, "but we expect it to be fun."

Country Fox Finds City Life Is Tough

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A red country fox that couldn't make a living in the city was captured downtown today and taken to the humane society for a free meal.

He needed it. He was so skinny eaten for a month," said Humane Society Officer Jim Loggins. Answering a report, loggins caught the fox with a loop after chasing it around a parking lot and cornering it under a taxi.

HANDY DEVICE—Mayor Stanley I. Dale of St. Joseph assumes the role of a milkman as he practices up for his competition in two milking contests with Mayor Julian Bagby of Sedalia, one of them at the Pony Express Rodeo in St. Joseph Sept. 24, and a preliminary match at the Missouri State Fair on Mayors' Day Aug. 23. In the above picture at State Hospital No. 2 dairy, Mayor Dale was the victim of a trick when they rang in a cow that had already been milked. The mayor was given another chance with an unmilked cow, but his son, Stanley Jr., (in foreground, back to camera), succeeded in getting more milk from the bovine. The milking contest to be in St. Joseph's Civic Center, will be the opening event of the annual Pony Express Rodeo. (Associated Press Photo)

Leftist Arbenz Resigns

Guatemalan President Hands Government Reins to Military Junta Led by Diaz

BULLETINS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The Guatemala government radio announced today the new government junta has outlawed the Communist party in that embattled country.

BULLETINS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Radio Guatemala said today ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman is departing today for Buenos Aires by way of San Salvador and Panama.

GUATEMALA (AP)—Leftist President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman resigned under the pressure of the army and military reverses last night. He handed over the government reins to a military junta headed by Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz, 39-year-old army chief of staff.

The anti-Communist rebel radio said today "we do not recognize" the new Guatemalan government of Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz.

It warned insurgent war planes will launch a "general attack" on military targets in Guatemala City if the rebel conditions for peace are not met.

The clandestine insurgent radio heard here said Col. Diaz would have until 8 a.m. CST to reply. But the rebel radio was still repeating the warning at 8:20 a.m.

The Guatemalan government radio was broadcasting music at 8:20 a.m.

The rebels declared "we fight a system, not a man" and said the same seven conditions "for peace and order" which they broadcast last Saturday still stand.

Diaz in a broadcast pledged the army to continue the war against the invading exiles led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, but the switch in government appeared to signal the end of the Communists' strong influence on the regime Arbenz had led. Army leaders are known to have become increasingly opposed recently to the Reds' strong influence on the government.

The ouster of the 41-year-old Arbenz followed reports of a big rebel victory at Zacapa, key railroad center 75 miles northeast of the capital. Army forces, particularly their artillery, were reported shattered there.

News of the army reverses was followed by a rising tide of popular support for the rebels, whose "Radio Liberation" had called Saturday for the armed forces to revolt, jail Arbenz and form a military junta to negotiate a ceasefire.

The insurgent warnings this morning said if their conditions are not met:

- "1. A general attack on all military bases in Guatemala City and
- "2. A concentrated attack on one in particular." (This target was not identified.)

"The 'Liberation radio' called on Col. Diaz to 'let us know or we will hit them (the targets) one by one until they are all destroyed.' The rebels appealed to the Guatemalan army not to obey the new chief.

"The army should not let itself be deceived," the broadcast said. "We fight a system, not a man. Our struggle is against communism until it is thoroughly uprooted from our soil."

Helicopters Give Airlift

Sudden Rain Strands Texas Passenger Train

LANGTRY, Tex. (AP)—Fourteen helicopters shuttled through rain-laden skies to rescue stranded train passengers today and still the rains poured on South Texas.

The traditionally lazy Rio Grande, which flows through the semi-desert land of South Texas, separating Mexico from the United States, awoke and roared.

The Weather Bureau said the river was headed for its greatest flood in history.

It spread into the low-lying river-side sections of Del Rio and Eagle Pass this morning. The two towns were believed to be in no immediate danger. The few residents in the low sections were evacuated yesterday.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's Sunset Limited stood stranded by high water at Langtry, the famed southwest Texas town which old-timer Judge Roy Bean named after the woman he worshipped—English actress Lily Langtry.

Seventy Pullman passengers were evacuated by helicopter before nightfall yesterday. Weary but glad to be safe—the kids jumping with the excitement of a "colder ride—the evacuees went into Del Rio for a hot meal at the hotel last night and were sent by train to San Antonio and on to their destinations.

The helicopters flew a thousand pounds of food to the 196 passengers still left on the train. Many of them were doctors returning from the American Medical Assn. convention in San Francisco.

The Rio Grande at Del Rio, 60 miles down the river from Langtry, was at a record 40 feet this morning and still rising. Sixty feet put it out of its banks. Its previous highest in history was 35.5 feet in 1932. Del Rio is about three miles from the river bank and has a population of 14,211.

Eagle Pass, with a population of 7,276, and 55 miles downstream from Del Rio, was in more danger. The town itself is only about a hundred yards from the river. The Rio Grande there was up to 42.8 feet today and was expected to crest at 50 feet tonight. Its previous high was 49 feet in 1932.

New cloudbursts in the ranch and wasteland above Del Rio overnight sent the river coursing.

Maj. William Hughes, in charge of one group of the 14 helicopters, said he had reports he believed were accurate that from 8 to 10 inches of rain had fallen overnight in the drainage area above this tiny, famous town.

Maj. Hughes said his report of new cloudbursts came from ranchers and others in the sparsely settled area.

Operations base for 13 helicopters was Laughlin Air Force Base at Del Rio, 60 miles downstream from Langtry. At Del Rio the swollen river was rising.

Des Moines River Heads for Mississippi After Final Crisis

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP)—Nearing the end of its disastrous plunge through central Iowa, the Des Moines River today moved uneventfully toward the Mississippi after passing its final crisis.

The Des Moines was defeated here as it was last Thursday when a record crest mounted at Des Moines. The river crested here early today near the expected 16.5-foot mark, over seven feet above flood stage but far below the 20.24 record flood seven years ago.

Ottumwa's confidence in being able to hold out the flood waters was summed up today by one of official who said, "We're still high and dry."

However, some flooding was inevitable in the lowlands where about 20 families were evacuated. Every levee still was holding today but sandbagging continued to check seepage.

Ike, Churchill Agree To Press Forward For Peace in Asia, Urge EDC Action

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill made a plea today for a "real good try" for peaceful co-existence with Russia to minimize the risk of a conflict which would "leave us victorious on a heap of ruins."

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill declared today they will "press forward with plans for collective defense" of Southeast Asia, regardless of whether peace negotiations for Indochina are successful.

In a communique, they also expressed "conviction that further delay" in the creation of a European Defense Community and granting of sovereignty to West Germany "would damage the solidarity of the Atlantic nations."

This was a prod for France to get on with ratification of EDC. On another major point, the American and British leaders jointly declared that "both our countries would benefit" from "technical cooperation" on atomic energy to the fullest extent permitted by United States law.

The communique, issued at the White House, was the first formal statement out of the four-day round of talks here on British-American policy differences.

The communique left unanswered the critical question of whether the international conference to create a Southeast Asia anti-Communist alliance might be called.

This has been a major issue, with Britain wanting no such definite action pending a conclusion of present French efforts to negotiate peace in Indochina. The United States on the other hand desired quick action. The communique appeared to bear out reports on continued disagreement by failure to report any agreement.

"We are both convinced," the communique said, "that if at Geneva the French government is confronted with demands which prevent an acceptable agreement regarding Indochina, the international situation will be seriously aggravated."

This was one of three terse paragraphs dealing with the Southeast Asia, and it set forth a clear warning to the Communists to offer the French honorable terms to end the seven-year old war.

Another reported that the two leaders had discussed Southeast Asia and "examined the situation which would arise from the conclusion of an agreement on Indochina."

They also "considered the situation which would follow from failure" of Indochina peace negotiations. Then they said:

"We will press forward with plans for collective defense to meet either eventuality."

The communique promised a second statement on "basic principles." Underlying American and British policy—probably a kind of harmony statement—will be issued tomorrow. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that Churchill will have another meeting with the President beginning at 11 a.m. (EDT) tomorrow.

This morning's meeting, lasting two hours, was scheduled as the last of their sessions. Churchill departs tomorrow for Ottawa, Canada.

The communique revealed little of the substance of the many conferences which have been held between American and British officials since Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden arrived here Friday morning.

It did not disclose what possible alternatives to a European Defense Community may have been considered. Nor did it indicate what was meant by the pledge to "press forward" with security plans for Southeast Asia.

Old Sarcophagus Is Found Empty; Hope Continues

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The recently uncovered Saqqara Sarcophagus proved to be empty yesterday but its discoverer thinks he will find the real tomb of an ancient Pharaoh deeper within the pyramid.

Archaeologist Zakaria Gomein, who found the sarcophagus May 31 beneath a step pyramid he had discovered last December said last night it was a "symbolic tomb" and he expects "to find the real one somewhere else in the pyramid."

"Any possibility that the tomb had been robbed should be ruled out," he said.

The tomb was opened amid great secrecy yesterday, but a communique from the Education Ministry said it was empty. The ministry said work in the area, some 20 miles south of Cairo, would be suspended until late fall.

After Gomein found the seventh sarcophagus, he told newsmen he hoped to find inside "a royal mummy" inside a wooden coffin ornated with gold. He believed it the last resting place of Sankhet, a 3rd Dynasty monarch who reigned over Egypt about 2,750 years before Christ.

Red China's Chou Visits With Burmese

NEW DELHI, India (P) — Red China's Chou En-lai flew to Burma today for the second phase of his campaign to enlist south Asian neutrals into a Peiping-organized "alliance for peace."

The Chinese Premier plans to spend two days in Rangoon for talks with Prime Minister U. N. before pushing on to Peiping.

His three-day visit to India left stern-faced Chou well entrenched with Prime Minister Nehru's government.

Chou climaxed his stay here by suggesting that Asian chiefs of state get together periodically to work for peace and to evolve "mutual respect" pacts similar to the one India had signed with China April 29 to govern relations with Communist-occupied Tibet.

Chou's proposal for an Asian get-together drew no distinctions between Communist and non-Communist nations. He said it applied to the "principal Asian countries."

He told newsmen in a press conference statement: "It is my view that, in order to seek common measures for the maintenance of peace and security in Asia, it is desirable for the appropriate persons of the principal Asian countries to meet occasionally and to consult with one another."

Both Chou and Nehru intimated that their declarations of mutual friendship and cooperation were only a beginning in closer relations.

Sources close to Chou's tight-mouthed delegation arrived at this estimate of the Chinese leader's plan:

Chou hopes with India's active assistance to build a stout Asian wall both politically and economically and thus oust Western interests.

The keystone of his program is "Asia for the Asians" and its aim is to combat so-called colonialism.

Economic cooperation will play an equal part with political understanding, because Chou is under orders to find through Asian sources a substitute for China's needs blocked by Western embargoes.

The informants said that was why Chou brought a group of economic experts here to sound out the possibilities of expanded economic relations between the two countries.

Probe Begins Of Plane Crash That Killed 14

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. D — An investigation was under way today into the crash of a big Air Force refueling plane on Box Springs Mountain early yesterday with a loss of 14 lives.

The KC97 Strato Tanker of the 96th Bomb Wing at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., struck the mountain at the 3,000-foot level while groping through a heavy overcast for a landing at Norton AFB at San Bernardino.

The pilot had asked permission to land at March AFB here, 12 miles south of Norton. But because of a local overcast, the plane was directed by radio to land at Norton. Box Springs Mountain is between the two bases.

After striking the mountain, the four-engine plane slid onto a boulder ridge and burst into flames. Ninety minutes later ground rescue units from March AFB reached the scene and radioed that there were no survivors.

The plane was on a routine training flight from Altus. In addition to the regular crew of seven, it carried seven passengers.

After $3 Success With One Circus, Youths Plan Another to Build a Children's Hospital

"Billy and I are going to have a circus announced Mike Jonson nine year old son, of Mr. and Mrs. Neville Jonson, to his parents one day recently and with that he handed the tickets they were selling to his father. The tickets were of black paper and were printed with black pencil.

Mike's dad took the tickets and looked at them closely. He scarcely read what was on them, but across the top he made out the words "Anderson Circus."

Since Billy is the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hopkins, who live neighbors to Jonson's, the dad was a little confused. "You and Billy are having the circus?" he said. "Then why are you calling it the Anderson Circus?"

Mike went on to explain. There was another youngster in the circus, Mike's ten year old cousin, Vincent Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, who also lives in the 900 block on West Fifth, and the Circus was under his name. Still another boy, was working on the show, too. Gary Wahrenbrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wahrenbrock, of the same neighborhood, but who, after helping to make all the plans, had to be out of town Friday night, June 25, when the circus was held.

The families of the youngsters were talked into fixing orangeade and other drinks, candy, popcorn and other things that are always sold at a circus, and of course they had to buy tickets.

Then Friday night they all went over to the Hopkins' back yard, which was all lighted for the circus.

There were camp stools, with no backs, which were free but the nice soft bridge chairs were reserved and cost a nickel. Most people didn't care about sitting on camp stools, especially the grownups who were just members of the families and another couple in the neighborhood. They took reserved seats for a nickel but the two ten cent reserved seats, which were extra comfortable, just didn't sell. The neighborhood kids in the audience didn't mind the camp stools though.

The show itself was not too much. A few little acrobatic stunts, a trapeze act, a story hour, and that was it. It was a "fraud, the big swindle", said one of the dads, but it was fun.

It took the kids' circus to get them all together for a little neighborhood party and they bought their own food and drinks and had a grand time.

When it was over the youngsters had a little more than $3 which they split three ways and saved 15c for Gary. This money they kept themselves, but they are going to put on another circus one of these days and they have plans on camp stools, especially the money, too. All of the proceeds from their next circus will go to build a hospital for crippled children.

Missourians Return to Hunt Skulls on Peruvian Coast

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. P. — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Robinson of Missouri and the U. N. Children's Fund (UNICEF) have finished six weeks' home leave and gone happily back to Peru, where they can indulge the curious pastime of digging skulls out of an Indian cemetery 2,500 years old.

The cemetery lies on the coast halfway between Lima and Ancon, and the Robinsons visited it a while back. They reported, in an interview here, that they found a crowd of Peruvians scattered over the six or eight acres, digging up curios. Every 10 feet or so a skull could be found.

"You pick up this skull," said the patrician Mrs. Cordelia Trimble Robinson from Columbia, Mo., "and you say, 'This was a baby.'"

She acted the little scene out, and the observer was reminded of the gravediggers in "Hamlet" and that speech about poor Yorick.

Her husband, a spade-bearded man from St. Louis, explained that the cemetery dated from about 600 B. C. and had been in use by one people after another up to the time of the Spanish conquest in the sixteenth century.

Archaeologists took out the most valuable relics long ago, he said, but though many of less value still remain, the place is neither fenced nor guarded and anybody can go in and appropriate whatever he pleases. Few tourists get to the rather isolated spot, and this enables the local inhabitants to make a business of excavating curios and selling them in the cities.

On the way there, the Robinsons came upon another crowd digging up another archeological site. It was, they said, a section of the 25,000-mile elevated road system that tied together the great Inca empire in the decades just before the conquest.

"Independent business men," as Robinson called them, were loading the clay base of the road into trucks and carting it off to make adobe bricks for sale as building material.

The couple had just driven over that Inca road with its hard surface of mixed clay and flint pebbles, after traversing a dirt road of later date.

"I think the Inca road was better," said Robinson. "There was probably a mile of it. Then it stopped in the middle of no place—actually on a sand beach."

A longtime student of the country, he said, is convinced that the Incas' runners—they had no vehicles—could make long trips faster on the roads of that day than automobiles can on those of today. It is figured that, running in relays of a mile and a quarter each, the couriers could do 12 miles an hour.

The Robinsons have been in South America since 1950. He is chief of field operations at the UNICEF's regional office in Lima. Until last year she was chief of mission in Quito, Ecuador.

She reported that American lima beans were better than Lima lima beans in Lima. She averred that she had seen an irritated llama spit a full six feet. Both agreed that such things made Peruvian living, as they put it, "fascinating."

Town & Country Picnic Gayest Ever Held Here

The annual Town and Country picnic, held, Saturday night for employees of the company, their families and guests, was one of the best the company has ever had with everybody seemingly enjoying themselves—from the tiniest tots on through to the oldest people there.

Those who cared to went out early in the afternoon to go swimming, but the serving started at 5 o'clock and that was when people began to arrive in great numbers. The filled plates were served on the Convention Hall porch in much the same manner as Town and Country shoes are made—assembly line style. Starting from the end of the long table with a paper plate and a ham sandwich, each woman assisting in the serving added something, potato salad, potato chips, pickles, olives, cottage cheese, cake and finally ice cream and the big plates of food were then handed out to the people as they came in line. There was hot coffee, too, but most people passed it by for the cold drinks.

There was a gymnast about the whole evening with lots of children there and even though they were all dressed up, the clothes didn't matter, they ran back and forth through the shower of water coming from the green hose that was watering the grass.

The serving continued until 7:30 and then all went into Convention Hall for dancing to music by Lee Brandt's orchestra. A large number of people danced, including many children, and others sat around the room and watched.

Awards in a game were given to the winners with the sweepstakes going to Grant Cox, Mary Cusick, Reba Blau and Amos Kline.

The big feature of the evening was the hat trimming contest which brought a constant roar of laughter from the audience as ten women employees selected hats from a table of assorted hats and trimmed them on the heads of the men. The women were allowed 15 minutes to make their creations and the hats were of all shapes and sizes. Flowers, feathers and ribbons of all kinds and colors were used in abundance. Sometimes the hats could hardly be seen for the trimming. The beauty of the bonnets and the models was breath-taking.

The judges had a great deal of difficulty in selecting the winners but the winning teams were Charles Sebek and Maxine Watson; Norman Arnold and Amelia Anderson, most artistic; Clarence Monsees and Ora Armstrong, most original; Quinton Bird and Margaret Young, cutest; and Everett Rossi and Doris Mae Stott, booby. Others taking part were Leo Galloway and Maxine Griggs, Joe Schultz and Ileen Masters, Ernie Lewis and Jean Williams, Neil Chapman and Bernice Anderson, Robert McCarty and Harriett Thornton.

Members of the entertainment committee were James Anderson, Glen Elliott and Ray Banks, the latter doing the announcing. C. W. Mathieson, vice-president of Town and Country, responsible for the picnic, was busy all evening seeing that everybody was having a good time.

The picnic was attended by nearly a thousand people.

Bethel Club Learns Secrets of Simple, Tasty Broiler Meals

Mrs. Lee Suhl was hostess at the June meeting of the Bethel Club at the Methodist Church in Lincoln Thursday afternoon, when special guests were members of Mrs. Suhl's 4-H Club cooking class. The project lesson, "Broiler Meals," was presented by the hostess.

The menu consisted of broiled cured ham, sweet potatoes, grapefruit halves, both of which were also broiled, and a tossed green salad.

Following the demonstration, the foods which were prepared and cooked were served to the group.

Mrs. Suhl pointed out the fact that broiler meals were unpopular because of the grease-spattered ovens, which are usually the result of such cooking and which require much time and effort to remove. However, she said, this handicap in broiling healthful foods can now be overcome, since it has been discovered that foods broil just as well when the broiler rack is placed a little lower than half way down in the oven, with the oven door left ajar about four inches during the cooking period. She also stressed the fact that only cured pork should be broiled, since the actual cooking period is too brief to kill the parasites which are so often found in pork.

Use only three of four vegetables in a salad, she said, using, for instance, lettuce, tomato, carrots and cucumbers which when combined with a small amount of lemon dressing, constitute an attractive, as well as healthful, dish. Mrs. Herschel Hansen led the games and contests, with Mrs. H. B. Lynch receiving the award. Group singing, entertainment and special readings were enjoyed. Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. H. F. Hansen and Mrs. Hedrick planned the event.

Lois Eken has returned home after a 4-H club meeting in Columbia, and three other girls, Joyce Davis, Linda Droeke and Juanita Roberts plan to attend 4-H camp at Knob Noster some time in August.

Smithton Homemakers To Show Cancer Films

Eighteen members answered roll call with "How I met my husband."

Cards of thanks and other correspondence were read, together with the usual business. A contributive luncheon was held at the noon hour.

The health chairman, Mrs. Beynon Huntress, announced that the club, together with the Friendly Homemakers, would sponsor several films on cancer to be shown at the Smithton High School on Friday afternoon, June 25, at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Stella Ramsever gave a demonstration on foot care and the proper fitting, selection and care of shoes, as well as care of the feet, was explained in pamphlets passed out to each one present.

Besides the regular members, three visitors, Mrs. Emma Bohon, Mrs. August Oehrke and her mother, Mrs. Germden, were present.

Mrs. May Is Hostess To Arator Homemakers

Mrs. Melvin May was hostess to an all day meeting of the Arator Homemakers Club for the June meeting with most of the members present. Wanda Jeffress, Judy Page and Connie and Billy May, were present as visitors.

The meeting was opened with a song, and Mrs. J. T. Long gave the devotion.

Kathy Returns To Vacation After Ordeal

MARKLEEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Little Kathy Paxton, who survived more than 40 hours without food or shelter in the High Sierra wilderness with no more serious consequences than a couple of bumps, is going back to Woods Lake to finish her vacation today.

The red-clad 5-year-old was located on the granite cliffs 1 1/2 miles from Woods Lake yesterday by Alvin Van Dell, 30, a timber cruiser. He joined the search "because I knew the country around there."

Van Dell and a friend, Louis Avery, started to work the high country because they thought others among the 500 looking for Kathy had thoroughly worked lower lands. Woods Lake is at the 8,500-foot elevation near the Canyon Pass on the ridge of the High Sierra.

They found Kathy's footprints—but lost them. After circling fruitlessly, Van Dell called "Lou, Lou" to Avery.

But it was Kathy who answered. "Why don't you call me?" she piped from a nearby ledge. She had been sleeping in a crevice when Van Dell called from only a few feet away.

Hardly daring to believe it was she, the tall lumberman asked: "Are you Kathy?"

"Yes," she replied with a tiny smile, "and I'm tired."

So Van Dell carried her, chattering about her experiences all the way, half a mile back to a road where a California highway patrol car was waiting with her stepfather, Stewart Crandall of Cupertino.

She was rushed to search headquarters, where a doctor from Stead Air Force Base near Reno was waiting. Aside from a bruised eye and a chipped tooth suffered in a fall, plus not having eaten for more than a day and a half, Kathy was declared all right.

But to make sure, an Air Force ambulance took her and her mother to Carson City, Nev., for a more thorough check. Kathy smiled and waved at everyone, and only cried when she learned that the ambulance wasn't to take her back to the camp at Woods Lake.

After it was all over, Mrs. Crandall said:

"If that's what she wants, to go back to the camp, we'll do it. Perhaps the fun there will make her forget the happening. But it'll not make me forget. I feel like 93 instead of 33."

Then she added, "And I'll never forget those wonderful men who hunted and hunted almost without rest while Kathy was lost. I'm just grateful to everyone and everything."

Kathy disappeared Friday evening. She said she drank water from a hole but had nothing to eat.

"At night I lay down on some pine needles," she said. "It was awfully cold."

It was —34 degrees each night. Proudly, she added:

"I was never scared."

ed directly toward the sun, the only special equipment needed, says the Eastman Kodak Company, is a neutral density filter for black-and-white and color film to cut down the sun's rays during the partial eclipse. A neutral density filter 4.0 is recommended. Otherwise the amateur should smoke up a piece of glass until sunlight can barely penetrate. Another way is to use several thicknesses of the blackest film negatives available.

The camera must be mounted on a tripod or other steady support. It should be pointed so that the sun just comes into the edge of the picture about half an hour after the first nick appears in the sun's disk.

With the piece of smoked glass before the lens the shutter should be snapped every five minutes during the next hour. It makes a impressive picture if the film is not advanced between snaps.

With Kodak Panatomic-X, Cine-Kodak Super-X, Verichrome or Plus-X film the lens openings should be set at f/16 with a shutter speed of 1/100 second. With Super-XX or Cine-Kodak Super-XXX film, a shutter speed of 1/200 second, also at f/16 will give good results.

Amateurs anxious to try their luck at color with Kodachrome or Ektachrome should use a shutter speed of 1/200 second at f/6.3, with the same neutral density filter.

It isn't necessary to have an expensive camera to take satisfactory pictures of the eclipse. Amateurs should try Kodak Super-XX film, smoke up a piece of glass until it is practically black and snap away.

During the total eclipse when the sun is completely blotted out by the moon, the filter should be removed. Then a setting of 1/100 second at f/4.5 for slower black-and-white film should be used. For faster film such as Super-XX, 1/100 second at f/5.6 will suffice. Kodachrome and Ektachrome should have a setting of 1/50 second at f/4.5. Replace the filter when the sun starts to emerge.

Girls at William Woods in Fulton

"Everything was wonderful. I can't believe I could have learned so much in a week," said Louella Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Griffith, 609 East 16th, who has just returned from Girl's State held the past week at Fulton.

Peggy Garanson, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, Broadway Arms, felt just about the same way. Peggy ended up after all the elections being county assessor.

Louella was council woman, city delegate to the state convention, ward committeewoman in the city election and was appointed to the state board of education by the governor of Girl's State, Edna McDonald, St. Joseph.

Edna didn't seem to consider politics when it came to appointments. She was a Nationalist, but Louella was a Federalist. It was this way, Louella explained: Edna was in the room right next to hers and they became very good friends before the election came up so Edna just had to put her in regard to her party. Edna, said Louella, was just about the most outstanding and sweetest person she had ever met.

Louella ran for senator, but was defeated by her roommate. It was mighty hard, said Louella, to campaign against your best friends.

The day at Jefferson City was really something. They met in the legislature halls just like the real assembly and Edna presided. Lt. Governor Blair of Missouri spoke and after the session they went to the Governor Hotel for lunch. During the day the girls visited the supreme court building and were treated wonderfully by the people of Jefferson City.

The first bugle sounded at 6:30 of a morning and it was a sleepy bunch of girls who went to the flag services. Then they had exercises and that woke them up. Even the one who directed the exercises looked sleepy. After all the girls didn't get to sleep very early, it took a little while to quiet down, especially when there were four in a room.

Stunt night was fun and there were some clever stunts which kept the girls laughing all night. Louella was in one that was called "Too Tired" and concerned a howling dog.

The most impressive thing was the candlelight service around the lake. The girls went in pairs to the lake, then divided, one line going one way around the lake and the other the opposite. When they had completely encircled the lake they lighted their candles one from another, after the first had been lighted at the taper.

A reception was held with all the officers in the line.

The people of Fulton were so nice to the girls. The week seemed very short, of which Bob Younger, but it will be a week that Peggy and Louella will never forget. Peggy was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club and Louella by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Air Committee to Meet

Maryland Votes Today In Primaries

BALTIMORE (AP)—National party officials showed special interest in three of the seven congressional fights and state political leaders kept close watch on the Democratic primary for governor today as Marylanders named their candidates for the November elections.

Despite this high-level attention and an exceptionally bitter campaign by Dr. H. C. Byrd and paying contractor George P. Mahoney for the Democratic governor nomination, the primary stirred little apparent interest among the voters.

Election supervisors predicted about one third of the 1,065,180 eligibles would turn out.

An even smaller showing was expected on the Republican side, where Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin sought renomination to a second term in a state where his party is outnumbered 2-1 by the Democrats.

The GOP campaign had produced few fireworks. McKeldin practically ignored his three opponents, Baltimore used car dealer Temus R. Bright, retired Marine Lt. Gen. Pedro A. del Valle and James W. Gurn, Montgomery County farmer and lawyer.

Also on the ballot were aspirants to attorney general, the State Court of Appeals, four circuit benches, the Legislature and county offices.

There was no major opposition from either party to Democratic Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, close friend and distant cousin to the 65-year-old Byrd.

With the GOP holding a bare majority of the seven Maryland congressional seats, national chieftains of both parties looked for sore spots and possible November breakthroughs.

Mentioned among these in dispatches from national party headquarters were the 3rd and 7th District seats occupied by Republicans Edward T. Miller and Frank Small Jr. and Democrat Samuel N. Friedel, respectively. Miller, who broke a long series of Democratic victories in his district eight years, was opposed for a fifth term by Mrs. Alonista Walker, widow of a wealthy oilman.

Small faced opposition from Robert E. Ennis of Capitol Heights, and Friedel from Henry R. Herge-roeder, member of a well-known baking family and professor at Baltimore Loyola College.

There was no primary opposition to the other incumbents.

In a televised windup campaign speech last night Byrd, who resigned as University of Maryland president to make his first try for public office, said he had evidence Mahoney was aided in his campaign by public relations man Jon Jonkel. Three years ago Jonkel was fined $5,000 after pleading guilty to violating state elections laws as director of Republican John Marshall Butler's successful campaign for the U.S. Senate.

The Mahoney camp issued a heated denial, saying it had nothing to do with Jonkel, who in 1950 was blamed for use of a controversial composite photograph in Butler's campaign against Democratic veteran Millard E. Tydings.

Polls opened at 6 a.m., EDT, in Baltimore, 8 a.m. in Talbot County and 7 a.m. in the other 22 counties. They will close at 7 p.m.

Reporters Unhurt In Crash of Small Plane

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Two U.S. correspondents for Time and Life magazines were reported to have escaped unhurt yesterday from the crash of a small plane at Esquipulas, Guatemala.

The newsmen were Robert Lubar, chief of the magazines' Mexico City bureau, and George Silk, photographer.

U.S. Ambassador to Honduras Whiting Willauer said he had cabled U.S. Air Force headquarters in Panama, asking for an air rescue team to get the two men out.

Their plane reportedly crashed at the airstrip in Esquipulas, the first Guatemalan town taken by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas' rebel invaders and the rebel headquarters for a time last week.

Tunisia Lacks Even Caretaker Government

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Nationalist torn Tunisia lacked even a caretaker government today to handle its troubled affairs.

Mohamed Salah M'Zali's cabinet, which resigned 12 days ago, served notice yesterday it would not attend to any more administrative business for this French North African protectorate. The French administrative government was handling the protectorate's business on a stop-gap basis.

When the ministers resigned June 16, they cited as the reason "the return to methods of violence and the incomprehension of certain groups."

The day before three pro-French leaders were assassinated. The act was blamed on Nationalist terrorists.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Mickey Spillane Considers Turning From Hate Motive

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Spillane, the literary gore-shedder, is feeling the gentle touch of time.

At 36 the Brooklyn-born author is mellowing himself, and feels the public also is so weary of the post-war cycle of violence that he is considering making Mike Hammer, his famous mythical private detective, turn in his brass knuckles forever.

Back in 1946 in "I, The Jury," Mike startled and fascinated the world of mice-men by drilling an ach and telling her "it was easy." Sherlock Holmes would have dismissed Mike Hammer as a dastard and a cad, but the public went crazy over a guy who could win a verdict over a blonde, even with a gun. Spillane says the seven thrillers he has written about Mike Hammer have sold 60 million copies, been reprinted in 11 languages.

"I have the distinct honor even having been translated into English for the British market," dryly remarked Spillane, a stocky former war flier.

"I have another book ready to go called, 'Tonight I Die,' and I feel it will be the last one about Mike."

"You have to change. You have to go with the market. I've used him as a motivation up to now. But we're over the war. Hate and violence are worn thin. People want books now built around subtle moods and character."

Mickey hinted he had another reason—that he was weary of taking the personal risks of more underworld researches for Mike's exploits.

"Fifty per cent of the situations I write about are true," he said. "But you can get clobbered once too often getting your background material."

"From now on I think I'll write nothing but fiction."

Yugoslavs Note World War I Set-Off Event

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP)—Forty years ago today, a big open touring car stopped on a main Sarajevo street amid hundreds of spectators. A shot rang out and a large bearded man in the rear seat pitched forward, mortally wounded.

While the crowd gasped in horror, the pistol barked again. This time the beautiful white-gowned woman crumpled and rolled from the seat.

Fifteen minutes later the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian-Hungarian throne, and his wife, the Countess Sophie Shotek, were dead. This double assassination on June 28, 1914, triggered the first of the two great wars of the 20th Century.

Today, as on every anniversary, the people of this ancient Bosnian city held a service of remembrance—not for the royal couple that died, but for the assassin, a student named Gavrilo Princip.

Princip, 20 years old when he fired the fatal shots, touched off a disastrous four-year war. But in Bosnia eyes he also accomplished his purpose—freedom from Austro-Hungarian rule. Yugoslavia became a free and united nation at the end of World War I. Princip died in an Austrian prison and is buried in Sarajevo in a ceremonial tomb.

Congressman Halleck Pulls Politics on Philip Willkie

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—White House friends point out that like could save himself a lot of headaches if he knew a little bit more about domestic politics, or if he had someone close to him in the White House who did.

For instance, Eisenhower could have saved a disagreeable senate debate over McCarthy's friend, FCC Commissioner John Doerfer. What Eisenhower didn't know was that Philip Willkie of Rushville, Ind., son of the late great Wendell Willkie, was being urged on the White House for appointment to the Doerfer spot when the latter's term was up.

Young Willkie is the son-in-law of F. Peavey Heffelfinger, executive treasurer of the Republican national committee. He represents the anti-McCarthy wing of the Republican party and no Democrat could object to his confirmation.

However, Congressman Charlie Halleck, who also comes from Indiana, rushed to the White House and demanded that Doerfer be reappointed. Apparently Halleck didn't want a bright young Republican like Willkie challenging his power in Indiana. Also Halleck was under pressure from McCarthyites to push through the Doerfer appointment as soon as possible.

Hastily, the White House acted. As a result, Doerfer is also already facing senate debate on his confirmation, and has aroused criticism that Eisenhower talks critically of McCarthy one day and appoints a McCarthy friend to a key post in the administration the next day.

Hunt's Funeral

The office staff of the late senator Hunt of Wyoming was kept from attending the funeral of their chief by senate Sergeant-At-Arms Forest Harness.

Harness barred them on the ground of economy, despite the fact that the plane carrying Hunt's body from Washington to Wyoming departed with 36 empty seats.

What happened was that four senators were appointed as official mourners to escort Hunt's body back to his home. But the funeral plane had 40 seats, leaving 36 seats and Hunt's entire staff asked to go. Sergeant At Arms Harness said no.

Then Hunt's two top assistants, Ira Whitlock and Mike Manatos, made a special request for themselves alone. They were also turned down by the GOP ex-congressman from Indiana.

Finally, at the very last minute when Manatos and Whitlock went to the airport to see the body of their dead chief depart, word came from Harness that the two men could occupy two of the 36 extra seats. But with only minutes to go, it was too late even to notify their families, and the plane flew on to Wyoming with 36 empty seats.

Texas Trouble

Svelte, handsome Allan Shivers, the Texas governor who bolted the Democratic party to Eisenhower, was considered a shoo-in for re-election a short time ago. Now he doesn't look so sure.

The reasons are: 1, resentment against a governor running for a third term, and Shivers will be running for his fourth; 2, Shivers' bolt from the Democratic party; 3, the insurance scandals that have been rocking Shivers' administration.

Though some of the insurance scandals have been aired in the Texas press, what hasn't been told is that the governor personally covered up the insurance mess for more than a year. Meanwhile, his campaign manager was hired by one insurance company for $1000 a month. Meanwhile, also, thousands of little people were cheated out of their life savings.

The man who lit the fuse under the insurance scandals, and who urged Governor Shivers to act as early as March 9, 1953, was R. W. Worth, now of Haddonfield, N. J. He had been hired two years ago to become treasurer of the Texas Mutual Insurance Company and it took him exactly three months to discover that the company was built on financial quicksand.

According to data brought out in the Texas courts, the company was organized in 1949 on a $500 shoestring by Leslie and Paul Lowry. In addition to their own $500 investment, they borrowed $19,500 and signed $100,000 in notes for a weather-beaten, one-story building in Beaumont, where Leslie had served a term as mayor. They then hired state Senator William Moore, chairman of the senate insurance committee, as their attorney. He not only blocked reforms in the Texas insurance laws, but persuaded the state insurance commission to approve a $436,000 appraisal of the Lowrys' beat-up building.

With this inflated asset, Texas Mutual wrote 38,000 policies and now owes $1,200,000 on 1,600 claims.

Worth began in July, 1952 to appeal for a house cleaning. He first wrote to the state attorney-general, Price Daniel, now a U.S. senator, but got brushed off. Finally, Worth went straight to Governor Shivers and begged him to help the bilked insurance holders. He followed up his visit with a letter, dated April 1, 1953.

Appeal To Shivers

"Dear Governor," he wrote. "On March 9, 1953, I had the opportunity to visit with you regarding the conditions of Texas Mutual Insurance Company. . . Mr. Shivers, I have been in this business for 22 years, and I know that too much safeguard around insurance in all its forms is impossible. For millions of Americans, insurance represents the only asset they will ever accumulate, and you are the only one left to whom they can appeal for action to help them from the loss of their savings."

The governor didn't even bother to answer the letter.

Worth also detected scandals in other companies, including Lloyd's of North America, which was founded two years ago by an ex-Olympic wrestler, Ralph W. Hammonds, who had up $20,000, borrowed another $20,000 and paid back his loan out of the $1,700,000 insurance premiums he collected.

Hammonds also had hired political influence in the person of John Van Cronkhite, Shivers' campaign manager.

Hastily, Shivers launched an investigation, claimed his campaign manager had been sucked in. Shivers' present attorney-general, John Ben Shepard, even made a big show of subpoenaing Worth to tell his story.

Worth, of course, was the same man who had

Turning Spotlight On CIA Could Wreck Its Operations

By Bruce Blossat

The Administration is properly worried over the prospect there might be public hearings into alleged communism in the Central Intelligence Agency. The glare of publicity never did any sort of intelligence operation any good.

If anyone proposed that the FBI be investigated in open hearings, most lawmakers would be greatly outraged. The CIA performs in the field of foreign intelligence functions roughly comparable to those carried out by the FBI domestically, though there are important differences in method and purpose.

The CIA, for one thing, is a collector and coordinator of vital information from all over the world. It tries to evaluate this information wisely so it can gauge the war potential of possible enemies. National policies are founded on the evaluations made by CIA.

For much of the data, the agency relies on foreign intelligence systems of friendly powers. In the view of CIA's head, Allen Dulles, public inquiries into CIA's operations could wreck these cooperative arrangements.

Just like the FBI, the CIA has to protect its informants. If they cannot remain secret, their usefulness is over. The problem actually is more acute for the CIA, since it has agents planted abroad under conditions where exposure would endanger their lives.

In addition, the CIA quite naturally employs active Soviet agents (so-called double agents), Communists and former Communists in satellite lands and Russia itself.

This "employment" is not the normal sort. These people are used for what they know or what they will do, in espionage, some sabotage, and analyzing data.

We do not want to get rid of such operatives any more than the Russians would cut agents adrift because they were "Americans." We are handicapped enough as it is for a lack of U. S. citizens trained in Russian affairs.

Informed sources say our lines go even deeper, into official Soviet and satellite circles. These are not under our direct control, but from time to time we have been able to tap them for information.

In the Administration's view, this whole delicate network would be imperiled if the CIA were put under the spotlight of public congressional hearings.

Since secret operations must of necessity remain secret, how can such an agency be held to any kind of public accountability?

The problem is not an easy one, but some thoughtful members are now suggesting that Congress ought to create, on a smaller scale, the type of joint committee of House and Senate which watches over the Atomic Energy Commission.

Though there have been a few unfortunate leaks from this committee, for the most part it has discharged its function with high responsibility. No reason is apparent why a similar group could not provide a wise and safe check on CIA without running the risk of destroying its value.

Husband's Memory Slips Are Not Always Cause For Alarm

By Ruth Millett

For every woman who is unhappy because of the things her husband does, there are probably half a dozen who think themselves into unhappiness over things their husbands fail to do.

Mrs. Jones wouldn't be unhappy all day because her husband neglected to kiss her goodbye, unless she talked herself into the belief that his not taking time to kiss her goodbye meant that he didn't love her as much as he used to.

Mrs. Smith wouldn't resent Bill Smith's going on a week's fishing trip with "the boys," if she didn't decide it was proof that he would rather spend his time with a bunch of male cronies than with her.

Mrs. Brown would chalk up Jim's forgetting their wedding anniversary to just one more proof of her poor memory, if she didn't let herself toy with the idea that if he really loved her he couldn't possibly forget the anniversary of the day of their marriage.

Avoid This Means-That Interpretation

Mrs. White wouldn't mind Mr. White's never talking shop to her if she didn't figure in her own mind that his keeping business matters to himself was a sign that he didn't think she would understand his problems if he did talk about them.

Mrs. Green wouldn't begrudge her husband the pleasure of eating his breakfast from behind the morning paper instead of talking to her if she didn't tell herself that she might not as well be there for all the attention he paid to her.

The things husbands fail to do are usually not important enough in themselves to make a wife unhappy. The unhappiness comes when the wife decides that his failing to do this means that.

Pix Mix

Uncaptioned pictures of an American mule, Mount Vernon and the Liberty Bell somehow got all mixed up with photographs of the Geneva peace conference on the front page of a Saigon, Viet Nam, newspaper the other day.

On investigation, a representative of the U.S. Information Agency in Saigon discovered it was the result of a last-minute effort by the editor of Dan Thanh, Viet Namese language newspaper, to fill space.

The picture of the mule was put in "just because it happened to be lying around handy," the editor explained.

The pictures of Mount Vernon and the Liberty Bell were put in "just because we thought they were beautiful." They had been sent to foreign newspapers generally by the U. S. Information Agency for possible use on Decoration Day or Fourth of July.

Bees may "talk" in four or five languages. Indications are that the language of bees is not entirely a sign language but that tones, probably in the supersonic range, play a role in their communications.

been trying for two years to get the attorney-general's office to listen and to get Governor Shivers to act. Worth had even offered to turn over a file of evidence to Shivers' associates, but they weren't interested.

"War Is Hell—I Theenk!"

The World Today—Time a Luxury to the West

(By James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Big Three—the United States, Britain and France—could hardly afford a split if Russia attacked. They'd have to fight, and together, or surrender. They wouldn't have the luxury of time to discuss their differences.

They have that luxury now, and are using it, because they are not in a hasty war but in a long-range one. In the end the long-range war may be just as fatal. The Communists are inching ahead, as in Indochina.

The fact that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles and Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden are here discussing their differences is testimony to the fact that they do have time.

None of them knows how much. Meanwhile, the Allies, including the French, act in their own individual interests and debate their differences.

The French held Indochina as a colony while not under pressure to do otherwise. When the Communist-led Viet Minh challenged them, the French showed they would make only limited sacrifices to hold what was theirs.

They sent no draftees into Indochina. That has been a war fought by French volunteers, and Germans and others in the Foreign Legion.

And in the past year the French, who pay a lot less in taxes than the Americans, weren't even able, or willing, to pay for their war in

by Henry Greger Johnson

AS Ricky thanked the community for helping him prepare the car for exhibit, he saw Link standing at the edge of the crowd, looking superior and scornful. Ricky ignored the dark figure.

"Before I leave," Ricky continued, "I want you to see how this coupe will be exhibited." He unwrapped a long cylindrical object he had been carrying, and held it up, letting it unroll in front of him. On gold letters, against a blue background (Sharon's idea and work), they read:

STREET ROD
Shown by Ricky Madison (Delville Timing Association) Ricky turned the sign from side to side, giving everyone a good look. Then he rolled it up and tossed it on the seat of the coupe. There were a few last farewells. Handshakes and good wishes from the DTA guys, from his parents, and finally Sharon. "I'm coming up on the bus tomorrow," she said, looking at him proudly. "And I'll ride back with you tomorrow evening—if you want me to."

"It's a date," Ricky said. He climbed in the truck and looked out, smiling. His father and mother stood below him. They looked proud and happy. And he was proud of them. Proud of the way his father had worked beside him for weeks, and had the confidence to invest money in the project. Proud that his mother had understood, and hadn't minded their crazy schedule that upset the house.

"It wasn't an easy time," Mr. Madison said to Ricky's mother as he quipped at the retreating truck. "But he made it. He'll be all right now."

Arnie came up, puffing, "Good send-off, eh, Mr. Madison?" "He really accomplished something, Arnie. We've been looking for the magic something. I guess this is it."

"I didn't forget the help you gave me, or the plans we made," Ricky said. "Merle, the Connor-Madison is on its way to its first public showing."

Graded Egg Market Now Paying Best

Poultrymen who are not now marketing eggs on a graded basis may want to consider doing so this summer. Records show that the poultryman doing a good job of producing and marketing graded eggs can average 4 to 6 cents more per dozen. This can mean an increased income of 60 to 90 cents per bird per year.

To make a graded egg market available, it takes the cooperation of the poultryman, produce man or trucker, and egg grading station. Where eggs are sent to market by truck, they should be delivered close to the time that the truck leaves for the market. If the eggs go to a produce house and then to the grading station, they should be taken to the produce house close to the time that they will be delivered to the egg grading station unless a cooler is available.

For a quality egg market to operate, it takes volume production or several producers working together. Usually the transportation cost of getting eggs to market will average rather high on just a few eggs, but the cost per dozen decreases as the volume taken to market increases.

If you have a flock of birds that you feel is of enough size to justify taking care of your eggs and marketing them on a graded basis, you are invited to come to the County Extension Office and discuss possible market outlets, says Merle Vaughan, County Agent. The circular, "Producing and Marketing Quality Eggs", giving the latest recommendations on the care of eggs, is available on request at the Extension Office.

Small Grains Are Fattening Feed for Pigs

A University of Missouri extension livestock specialist suggests you consider using small grains in your growing-fattening ration for pig this summer.

Small grains are a big help in pushing spring pigs to market... explains Bill Pugh... because they are available early in the season. Pugh points out that oats are equal to corn in feeding value if fed in limited quantities. He suggests grinding the oats medium-fine and using them to make up a fourth to a third of the ration. When oats make up the entire grain ration... they are only 70 to 75 per cent as valuable as corn.

Barley is an excellent feed for growing-fattening pigs... says Pugh... and can be fed as the only grain in the ration. And since barley contains more protein than corn... you can get by on less protein supplement.

Pugh believes wheat will be cheap enough to use for hog feed this summer in some instances. He points out that it's palatable, contains more protein than corn, and can be used to replace all the corn in the ration. Actually, says Pugh, wheat is worth more than corn pound for pound when fed to pigs. He suggests grinding it fine.

Good quality rye is about 90 per cent as valuable as corn in hog rations. However, it tends to vary a lot in quality and palatability. To get around the unpalatability feature... Pugh suggests feeding it in combination with other grains. It also pays to grind rye finely to overcome its small size and hardness.

The 47-year-old logger was thrown from his machine and a wheel of the heavy tractor-trailer passed over him. His wife suffered a broken jaw and was taken to a hospital at Memphis, Tenn.

They were on their way from Wilson to visit relatives at East Prairie, Mo.

FREEBURG, Ill., (P) — The body of Walter Freeman, 54-year-old Freeburg mechanic who apparently drowned while fishing alone, was recovered yesterday from the Kaskasia River near here.

JAL, N.M. (P) — An east wind carried oil mixed with mud, in a brown mist from a wild gas well, over this New Mexico town yesterday.

With the sticky spray came fumes from the uncontrolled gaser. Some houses and cars were stained brown.

The well, one mile southeast of Jal, blew in last Tuesday. It has been spewing 50 to 60 million cubic feet of gas daily. There has been fear it might burst into flames.

Balanced Farming Notes

In Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Agent

Hoppers Are Scattered

The present hopper infestation is really spotted with many farmers having very few and others having far more than their allotment. I drove quite a bit of the northeast part of the County Thursday without finding many hoppers. The next morning Mrs. J. C. Murphy of Nelson, Rt. 2, called to report a heavy infestation over a whole corn field and wanting the name of someone with a custom sprayer. I made another swing out around Dresden, then back to Main Street, and on West. I ran into a heavy crop in fence rows and ditches in the Longan, Mittelhauser and Jack neighborhood.

The return trip was made on 16th Street. I had stopped at Garnet Haggard's corn field to look for hoppers when Garnet came along. "Did you find many hoppers?" he asked. When I answered in the negative, he told me that he had sprayed around the field with Aldrin recently.

Hit Hoppers Hard

Some farmers are still using the spring application of insecticides on the nearly full grown hoppers. This is wasted time and effort as it will take the "summer" application of 1 pint of Aldrin 25 per cent emulsifiable concentrate or 1-3 gallon of Toxaphene 60 per cent emulsifiable concentrate or 1-3 gallon of D.D.T.

Bad At Wear's

J. J. Wear of east of Green Ridge was in the office Saturday morning about the hoppers at his place. He said they had taken 6 acres of timothy and he had to cut his oats with a binder as they were cutting off the heads. He estimated that in places there was 5 bushel of grain per acre on the ground. He said he had sprayed the timothy, one corn field and around another. He had already spent over $100.00 and doubted if he was making any headway.

Ready To Spray at Billy Campbell's

Glen Hunter, who has been doing some custom spraying in the Ma-nilla neighborhood, had left his sprayer at Billy Campbell's until he could get some more Aldrin. I walked out into the Campbell corn field. They were feeding near 15 as heavily 20 rows out in the field as at the edge. Some stalks had been cut off completely while others had the leaves stripped down to the mid rib. And this was good sized corn. 24 to 30 inches high.

I tried to get some pictures of the 5-8 hoppers that were often on a single stalk but they operated like squirrels and moved to the other side of the stalk when I came up close.

Bait The Pastures

Some folks can't spray their pastures because they have no place to go with their cattle. One remedy would be to spread bait there and then maybe keep the cattle off for a half day after the bait was spread. I saw hoppers so thick in a sudan at Bill McCune's that they sounded like sheep walking. Too, they were just about mowing the sudan as they went. Poison bait could be used here. However, as short as they had eaten the sudan, it will probably take it three weeks to recover, so it could be sprayed.

Navy Gives Help

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (P) — The South of Broadway Assn. at its luncheon meeting reached the time to pledge allegiance to the flag. But no flag. Missouri Dairy Days Scheduled Missouri Dairy Days are back in the news again. Several have already been held this spring and several more are scheduled throughout the remainder of the summer.

Mansfield holds the distinction of holding the first dairy day festival. Called "Butter Day," the event changed the picture as far as butter sales in the area are concerned. Butter sales rose sharply and have remained strong since.

After the Mansfield Butter Days, several communities throughout the state held similar events. Civic groups worked with farmers and others in sponsoring the days. The result was renewed interest and enthusiasm in the dairy industry.

Again in 1954, Mansfield was first to hold a Dairy Day. Since then, dairy festivals have been held at Osceola, Humansville, Nevada and Butler, with many others scheduled later. Sedalia will hold one in late September. The good that comes from these Dairy Festivals is perhaps greater than most realize. When people start working together as they do in these communities, the window displays, special editions of their paper, floats of all types, bicycle parades, turtle races and contests for a dairy queen of this event — a lot happens. Radio, newspapers, and television are all interested participants. They give a lot of publicity and do a lot of good in spreading the word that dairy products are good for humans. Nutrition is one of the important problems of our lives and one of the easiest to do something about. Through Dairy Days, people begin to see that for their own good health they should be using more dairy products.

Farm Grain Storage Plan Is Outlined

A nine-point program for protecting grain in farm storage is recommended by the Agricultural Experiment Stations and Agricultural Extension Service of 12 North Central States and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The program is highlighted in a new regional bulletin, NC-49, "Control of Stored Grain Insects in the North Central States," available from your county extension agent.

The nine recommendations are: 1. Store grain in a well constructed, isolated granary.

2. Store the grain in as dry a condition as possible.

3. Remove all old grain from bins and any grain and feed accumulations from other buildings on the farmstead to prevent a buildup of insect populations.

4. Apply residual spray to the ceilings, walls, and floors of the granary or crib and other buildings at least two weeks before grain or feed is to be stored.

5. Fumigate all old grain which cannot be removed from the granary before storing new grain.

6. Apply protective powders to newly harvested wheat.

7. Fumigate unprotected small grains within six weeks after harvest.

8. Inspect grain at frequent intervals to discover insect infestations or heating.

9. Fumigate stored grain a second time if infestations develop. Single copies of the bulletin are available from county agents or the Missouri College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo. Ask for bulletin NC-49.

Self-De-lousers Used for Cattle

Four herds of test cattle in the Willamette Valley of Oregon have proved cattle can rid themselves of lice, if you give them an insecticide-treated device to rub against. Researchers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture report the cattle de-loused themselves in less than four weeks. The de-louser used was a burlap wrapped wire stretched from the top of a 5-foot post and anchored to the ground nine feet from the base of the post. The burlap was treated with about a gallon of 5-per cent chlordane oil solution. Other insecticides are now under test. The method seems especially suited to the North where cold winters make spraying and dipping undesirable.

Top Dress Corn With Nitrogen

If you're shooting for 100-bushel corn yields this year you'll need around 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre. In case you haven't already applied this amount, top dressing your corn with nitrogen offers an excellent way to make up the difference.

University of Missouri soils specialists explain that average silt loam soils require about 100 pounds of nitrogen to make 100-bushel yields. If the corn followed a good crop of sweet clover turned under... or if heavy manure applications were made... 60 to 70 pounds additional nitrogen is all that is probably needed. Top dressing should make up the difference between this and what you applied before or at planting time.

Former Pettis Agent Is Going To Washington Job

A member of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture staff and former assistant county agent in Pettis County has accepted the position of information specialist with the Federal Extension Service in Washington, D. C.

He is Bryan Phifer, assistant agricultural editor at the University for the past four years. Phifer will assume his new duties July 1st.

After receiving his BS degree in agriculture from the University in 1949, Phifer served as assistant county agent in Pettis County until October, 1950, when he became assistant agricultural editor.

For the past two years, Phifer has worked on the radio phase of extension information and developed a statewide network of daily farm radio programs from the College of Agriculture. He has also assisted county agents throughout the state start local radio programs.

In his new position, Phifer will be working with state extension editors over the country on the expanded Balanced Farming program recently authorized by Congress.

Top Dress Corn With Nitrogen

If you're shooting for 100-bushel corn yields this year you'll need around 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre. In case you haven't already applied this amount, top dressing your corn with nitrogen offers an excellent way to make up the difference.

University of Missouri soils specialists explain that average silt loam soils require about 100 pounds of nitrogen to make 100-bushel yields. If the corn followed a good crop of sweet clover turned under... or if heavy manure applications were made... 60 to 70 pounds additional nitrogen is all that is probably needed. Top dressing should make up the difference between this and what you applied before or at planting time.

Get Out and Sell, Benson Tells Dairymen

AT SOURCE OF SURPLUS: Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson demonstrates his dairy knowledge at State College, Pa.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Food & Markets Editor

WASHINGTON — Like every other head of a family, Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, is troubled over the price of milk and other dairy products. He wants those prices to come down.

But, despite record milk output in the face of declining consumption, many in the dairy industry want prices to stay up and want them backed by high, rigid government supports. Benson is shooting for lower, more flexible supports. He feels the industry expects the government to hold the bag, and he has dug in his heels for a fight.

Bearing the wrath of the dairy producers makes it just about complete for the Secretary, since he has only recently slapped onto such staple crops as wheat, corn and cotton the stiffest acreage controls in the history of the price support law.

Under his newly announced rules, he not only plans to cut sharply into 1955 acreage allotments for the support crops, but he would bar farmers from shifting output from one high-priced support crop to another. The framers haven't looked at anything as tough in a long time.

In an exclusive interview, he told NEA how he sees the dairy part of the problem. "I see no reason why one branch of agriculture should receive more preferential treatment from Government than one child in a family should receive more love and attention than his brothers and sisters."

The parallel was an easy one for him. He was sitting in his office flanked by the framed photographs of his six children—four girls and two boys. He went on:

"The dairy picture has been over-emphasized. The industry is thinking in political terms, not in terms of cold economics and overall national welfare."

He pointed out that while smaller amounts of dairy products are being consumed, the flow of milk from our farms is increasing and the government is forced by law to buy large volumes of these products.

"On April 1 of this year, the government owned enough butter to supply consumers for three and a half months, enough cheddar cheese for six months, and nearly a year's supply of non-fat dry milk," the Secretary said. "The private dairy industry is tending to dump its products on government, instead of trying to sell them to consumers on a free enterprise, competitive basis."

He added: "I am positive — and I am a dairy farmer of long experience myself—that had the industry tried to do a selling job for themselves, a job comparable to the one done by the soft drink and frozen orange juice manufacturers, the government would not have been forced to buy more than 1,600,000,000 pounds of dairy products between April, 1953, and April, 1954."

Benson's face darkened as he thought this over, out loud. "Don't they realize the government can't deliver forever?" he asked. "If by a vigorous selling effort, the industry could get everyone to drink just a quarter of glass more a day, there would be no milk surplus."

The most controversial figure in President Eisenhower's cabinet, Benson is physically strong, poised, and greets his callers with Western friendliness. But as he talks, his reliance on religious guidance and economic common sense becomes manifest.

The President is backing his Secretary's unpopular farm program 100 per cent, said Benson. "He told me the other day that foreign affairs and agriculture are his two major interests. Despite all the rumors you hear—and I'm sure you are hearing many—I am not resigning. However, if the President wants me to go, all he needs to do is pick up the phone and tell me."

He smiled, "I would be much happier back home. But I know it is a great honor to be able to serve my country. So I am staying. You see, I have learned to resist pressure."

Discussing his April 1 action in reducing dairy supports from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, Benson said he felt the move justified by the vast accumulation of dairy stocks.

"Too much government buying tends to dry up private channels," he added. "The trade loses incentive. I am convinced that lower and flexible price supports are economically sound. They will bring down the price of dairy products enough to encourage the public to buy more of them. At the same time the industry will be "The first six months were the worst," he said. Glancing at the family pictures on his desk, he added quietly: "But that was when I was here alone before my family arrived."

Teams Racing
To Hold Lead
On July 4th

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Five teams are waging a bitter battle for first place by the Fourth of July — the date that tradition has marked as "Championship Day."

Since the turn of the century approximately seven out of every 10 major league leaders on July 4 have gone on to win the pennant.

With only a week to go, no team is assured of the top spot on the midseason holiday. The New York Giants lead Brooklyn by one game today but the National League pace-setters face a "crucial" three-game series with the Dodgers at the Polo Grounds starting tomorrow.

Cleveland sports a 1½-game advantage over Chicago in the American League but the White Sox can dislodge the Indians with a sweep of their four-game series in Cleveland next weekend. A letdown by each could pave the way for the New York Yankees to bypass both of them. While the Indians and White Sox are at each other's throats, the Yankees will engage the 2-2 and division Washington Senators in a four-game set at Yankee Stadium.

The Indians widened their lead to a game and a half yesterday, salvaging the last of a three-game series from the Yankees 4-3 while Chicago was held to a split by Boston's Red Sox. Beaten 2-1 in the opener, the White Sox doubled back to trounce Boston 9-1 in the second game of their double-header. The loss widened the Yankees' deficit to three games.

New York's sizzling Giants maintained their one-game advantage over the Dodgers with an uphill 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in 10 innings. Blanked by Warren Hacker with two hits through eight innings, the Giants tied the score at 2-2 when Whitey Lockman hit a two-run homer with two out in the ninth and won in the 10th when Willie Mays doubled, stole third and scored on pinch hitter Bobby Hofman's single off loser Hal Jeffcoat. It was the Giants' 21st victory in 25 games.

The Dodgers equaled a team record by blasting five home runs to polish off the St. Louis Cardinals 8-0 in the final game of their three-game series. Gil Hodges drove in four runs with his 19th and 20th homers and Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella and Junior Gilliam each had one.

Granny Hamner was the offensive star as the Philadelphia Phillies swept a twin bill from Milwaukee 4-3 and 2-1. The leading second baseman batted .333 in the second game, driving in three runs and giving Curt Simmons his seventh victory in the opener. Hamner tripled with one out in the ninth, driving in both runs in the nightcap.

Frank Thomas' ninth-inning single gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 victory after the Cincinnati Reds had won the opening 9-0 behind Corky Valentine's five-hit pitching. Ted Kluszewski drove in two Redlegs runs with a double and two singles.

First baseman Dick Kryhoski drove in the winning runs in each game as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 and 3-2 and climbed into sixth place. The double win gave the Orioles five straight following a nine-game losing streak.

Kryhoski, who extended his hitting streak through 18 straight games, singled in Bobby Young from second with the winning run in the 11th inning of the opener. His winning single in the second game came in the ninth and scored pitcher Joe Coleman, who registered his eighth triumph.

Bob Porterfield, backed up by the homer hitting of Eddie Yost, Pete Kunnels and Mickey Vernon, coasted to his ninth victory as Washington walloped Detroit 8-2 to move within a game of the fourth-place Tigers.

T & C Girls
Win Sunday Nite,
7-6, Over Dons

The Town-Country girls softball team beat the Kansas City Dons, 7-6, in a well played game at Center Park Sunday night.

Betty Joe Appleman hit a home run in the sixth inning of the game which served as a margin for the Sedalia win.

Betty Dick and Earlene Walz were the leading hitters for the winning Sedalia team as they had three hits each in four trips to the plate.

Earlene Walz was the winning hurler for Town-Country while Franks, of the Dons, was the loser. The Sedalia win Sunday night came after the Kansas City girls had defeated T & C Saturday night 14-8. The Sunday night win gave the local girls an even break in the two game series.

Next game for Town and Country will be with Jefferson City Wednesday night at 8 p.m. at Center Park.

UCLA Again Hits
Top in College
Tennis Tourney

SEATTLE — The University of California at Los Angeles ranked first in American collegiate tennis for the third straight year today after Bob Perry and Ron Livingston won the doubles crown yesterday to close out the 1954 NCAA net tournament.

The team title actually was decided earlier in the week by the potent Uclans but the four-set victory of Livingston and Perry over Jacques Grigry and Allen Cleveland of the University of Southern California gave UCLA permanent possession of the Penick Bowl.

The UCLA pair whipped the Trojan duo, 6-4, 6-0, 3-0, 8-6. Ham Richardson of Tulane won the singles crown Saturday, defeating Perry, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

AAU Track Entrant
Dies in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS — Austin Scott of New York, who collapsed after finishing fourth in the six-mile run at the A. A. U. track and field meet here June 18, died yesterday at Barnes hospital.

The attending physician said the 29-year-old Scott, member of the New York Pioneer Club, had a liver infection and that this and the strain of the race resulted in "complete liver and kidney failure."

Haddix Beaten
By Brooklyn
8-6 Sunday

ST. LOUIS — The home run bugaboo that has plagued the St. Louis Cardinals all season finally has caught up with Harvey Haddix, pride of the club's pitching staff.

Haddix was slugged for five home runs yesterday—one more than he had yielded in the previous 17 games he had pitched—with the Brooklyn Dodgers dealing out the harsh treatment at Ebbets Field.

As a result, the Cardinals were beaten 8-6, giving the Dodgers a sweep of the three-game series, snapped at 10 games, and the Cardinal ace was left wondering what happened.

"I pitched the same way I have been, and had the same stuff," Haddix said. "They hit two sliders, fast balls and a curve—they hit everything."

Referring to the second of two home runs smashed by Gil Hodges, Haddix said it was a slow outside curve and "I thought it was a perfect pitch."

Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson and Junior Gilliam each had a home run off the Cardinal southpaw as the Dodgers tied their all-time club record for the number of home runs in a single game.

Hodges' second home run came in the seventh inning and finished off Haddix, who had allowed only one run in his previous 41 innings and had pitched seven straight complete games.

Ray Jablonski and Rip Repulski homered for the Cardinals, and Red Schoendienst extended his hitting streak to 15 games.

Cardinal pitchers now have been blasted for 88 home runs this season. At that rate, they'll take over the dubious title for giving up the most home runs in a single season. The Cincinnati Redlegs hold that record now—179 gopher balls in 1953.

Collard-Pearson
Scores Best
After Sunday

INDIANAPOLIS — Par golf had won only one match in the Western Golf Association's first international four-ball tournament, going into today's second round.

Long driving Dick Collard of New Orleans and Curtis Person of Memphis had a best-ball card of 6 under par Sunday in a 5 and 4 victory over a Pollard Simmons of Dallas and Clayton Nichols of Indianapolis. Collard sank four birdies putts with a borrowed putter.

Crooner Don Cherry of Garden City, N. Y., the 1953 Canadian amateur champion, and Dale Morey of Martinsville, Ind., last year's U. S. amateur runnerup, clipped five strokes off par in eliminating Sam O'Neill of Crawfordsville, Ind., and Richard Perk Indianapolis, 3 and 2.

Morey and Cherry were matched with two dangerous youngsters from Memphis in an afternoon contest today. Roy Moore Jr., 16-year-old Memphis high school pupil, and H. S. (Buddy) Humphreys, University of Louisville dental student, needed only 12 holes to eliminate Karl Nessler and William Cooley of Indianapolis and were 3 under par.

Tokyo Baseball Fans
Raise Commotion After
Umpires Call Decisions

TOKYO — Japanese ball fans enraged over decisions by umpires, threw bottles and fists, tore up seats and broke stadium windows yesterday at two professional games in Osaka.

Four hundred police were called out to quell one riot that did not let up until midnight.

Fans threw bottles at the umpire while one game lasted, then tore up seats and broke windows.

A pop bottle barrage that injured a young boy held up another game. The fans threw until they ran out of bottles.

Emma Beats Hamm's
4-3 in Nine Innings

The Emma softball team defeated the Hamm's Distributing Co. in a Central Missouri League game Sunday night 4-3 at Emma.

Schultz on the mound for Hamm's had Emma shutout up to the last of the seventh hitless. Emma broke the ice and the game went nine innings before the winning run was scored.

Hamm's will meet Houstonia in a league game at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday on the Center Park diamond.

Post 16 Plays
Springfield,
Liberty Park

Tonight at Liberty Park, the Post 16 Junior Legion team will meet the Springfield Legion at 8 p. m.

The Springfield club has won all its games this season and leads its district. Sedalia will be out to stop their winning streak.

Kenneth Buhlig will draw the pitching duties for Post 16. No admission is charged, only a free will offering will be asked.

Chiefs Lose
To Boonville
Sunday Night

In a hotly contested Central Missouri BJ baseball game played at Liberty Park Sunday night, the Boonville Lions won from the Sedalia Chiefs 7 to 3. The game was played in the intense heat without any breeze whatsoever.

Almost the entire lineup of both teams displayed soaked uniforms.

The Chiefs jumped to a one run lead in the first inning only to have the score tied by the Lions in the second. A three run rally in the third put the Lions into a lead they never relinquished.

Schultz pitched very creditable ball but his opponent, Hayob, was really tough for the Chiefs, especially with men on the bases. Errors, to a certain extent, contributed to the downfall, but Hayob's tight pitching with men base was the real difference.

Schultz struck out seven and walked five while his successor, Arnold, fanned three and walked only one for Sedalia. Hayob whiffed 4 and walked eight and his reliever man, Herlinger, struck out 3 and walked one.

Jerry Whitesides had a big night for the Lions, getting four for five including a double and one of the longest home runs seen at Liberty Park in many years. Jim Fall had a double for the Chiefs.

The Chiefs' next game will be against Brookfield at Liberty Park on Wednesday night. For a holiday game, the Chiefs will play the Sedalia Maytags on both Sunday and Monday nights, July 4 and 5, both games start at 8 p. m.

Ted Williams
Is Difference
In BoSox Lineup

CHICAGO — As far as the Boston Red Sox are concerned, Ted Williams could strike out every time he came to bat and still be the difference between a good team and just another ball club.

"It's hard to explain," said a Red Sox authority during Boston's four game series with the White Sox in Chicago over the weekend.

"But without him we're bums. When he's in the lineup we kind of play up to him."

The Red Sox won both games he started—Saturday by a score of 3-1 and the first game of Sunday's doubleheader 2-1.

Williams got only one single in each game. His hit Saturday drove in one run and he later drew a walk and scored another. In his appearance Sunday, his sixth-inning blow drove in the tying run.

On Friday, he came to the plate in the ninth inning and bashed a pinch two-run homer in a 6-4 losing cause.

But it was in Sunday's second game—won 9-1 by the White Sox—that Williams' value to the Red Sox seemed to be most evident even though he didn't play a second.

The Red Sox defense fell completely apart, committing five errors and permitting four unearned runs to cross the plate.

Phillips 66,
Browns Win
On Saturday

Phillips 66 defeated Taystee Bread 13-2 and the Brown's Supply Co. team beat Western Auto 8-6 in games played at Liberty Park Friday night in the Babe Ruth League.

In the first contest, between Phillips and Taystee, the winners, behind the fine pitching of Tommy Herrick, fairly trounced the losers as they won by a large margin. Jones had a three-bagger for Phillips.

In the second contest, the Brown's won as they defeated Western Auto. Cox, who came in for the losers, was credited with the loss.

Newman was again the outstanding player of the evening as he had two singles, a double, a triple and home run. He is leading the league in hitting and is the only player to have a homer thus far this season.

Next Friday, July 2, marks the end of the first half of play for the Babe Ruth leaguers.

Blind Veteran Rescues Three From Water

LUCEDALE, Miss. (AP)—A blind Korean War veteran rescued three companions from drowning last night in the swift waters of the Pascagoula River.

Danger was old hat to 22-year-old Charles Vines; he had served with the famed 1st Marine Division on the Western Front in Korea, where he was blinded by a mortar shell.

Last night he plunged into the dark river at the first cry from two teen-age girls who were swept toward mid-stream after they stepped into deep water while wading near the bank.

James Peacock, also 22, went to the aid of the young girls, but a recent illness left him no match for the strong current.

Vines saw toward the girls' cry of distress. He reached Anne Louise Ball, 18, and grabbed her by the arm, then swam with her in tow until he found the other, Barbara Wood, 15.

He told Barbara to hold on to both of them, and the three began their way shoreward.

About 40 feet from the bank Barbara said she could swim the rest of the way, and struck out alone.

Vines reached land with Anne Louise — and heard Barbara cry out again as she was swept back into the swirling central current. He leapt back into the water and headed toward the sound of Barbara's voice.

This time there were about 200 yards to go. Witnesses said the young girl was going under the third time when Vines got to her. Once more he began the long haul back.

He made it, then turned and pulled the faltering Peacock from the river.

West, Reds Appear Near Indochina Peace Commission Agreement

GENEVA (AP)—A high Western source said today there appears to be "a good chance" that the West and the Communists will agree soon on the composition of an international armistice supervisory commission for Indochina.

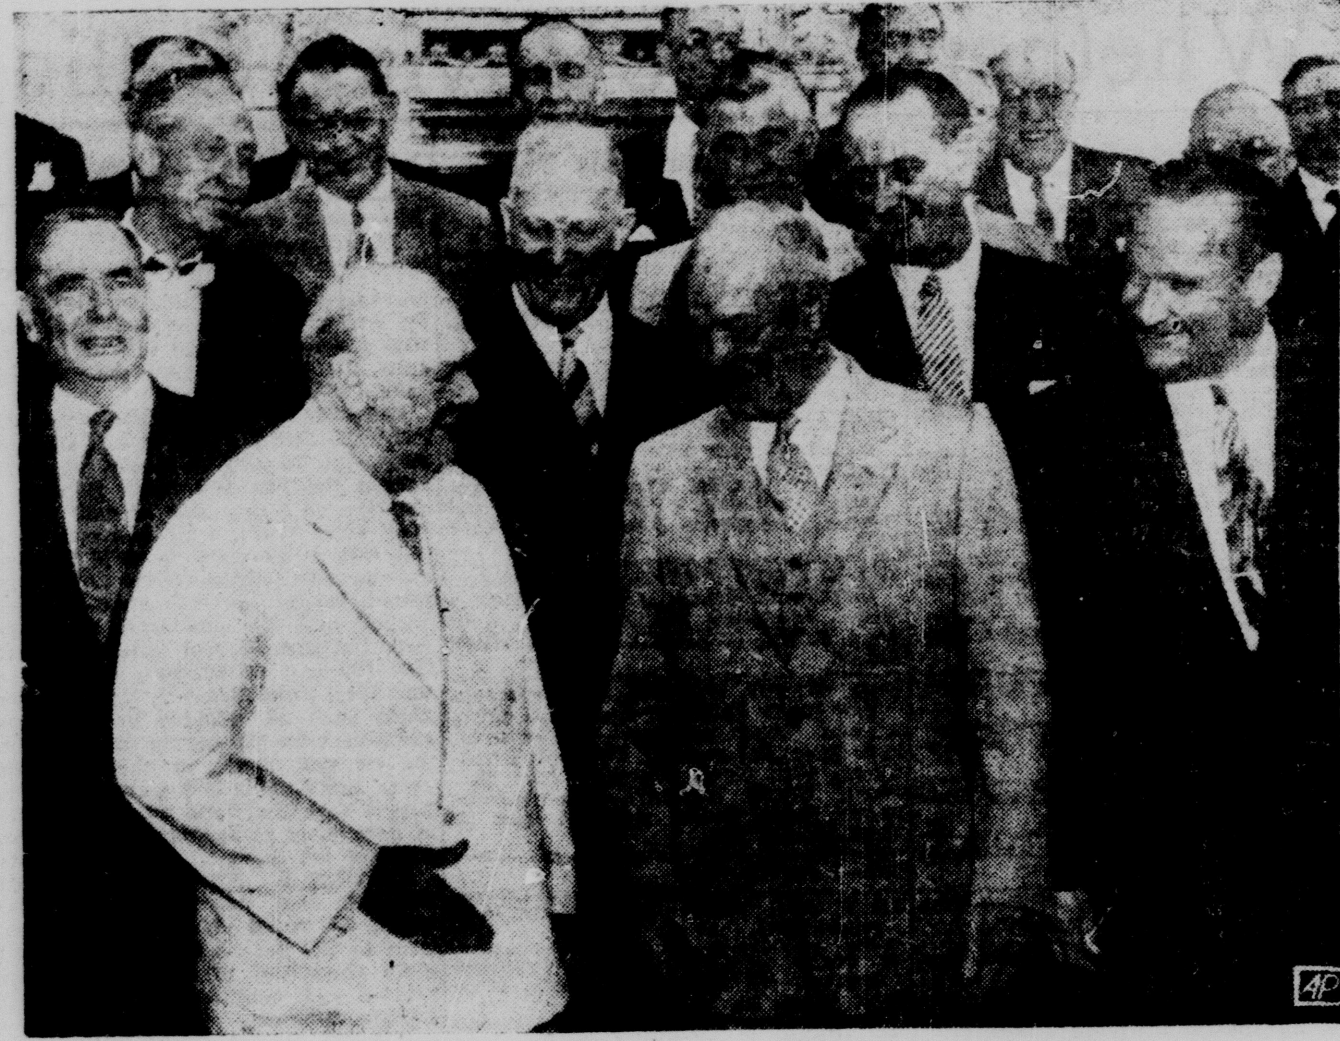

The question of the commission's composition and its powers has been argued and debated for weeks in the Geneva conference. The Communists and particularly the Soviet Union, insisted at first that the two Communist states of Czechoslovakia and Poland be included in a four member commission. The West rejected this idea.

The Western informant said the most likely compromise appeared to be a commission composed of India, Ceylon, Burma, one Communist country and one European neutral.

Bob Thomas in Hollywood—TV Reunites Gilda Gray, Son After 40 Years Being Apart

By Bob Thomas
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Among the wonders effected by television is the reconciliation of shimmy dancer Gilda Gray and her son.

When the entertainer embraced her son Martin on "This is Your Life" last week, they bridged a gap that had existed between them for nearly all of his 40 years.

Today Miss Gray and her grandson are a tight family group and she is proudly showing them off to her Hollywood friends.

The happy ending to a bitter chapter came in the closing minutes of the Ralph Edwards show. Miss Gray had wept as the highlights of her fabulous life were paraded before her. But when her son appeared, she broke down completely.

The reconciliation was arranged by Edwards' aides. One of them phoned Martin in Mercer, Wis., and it was in that call that the son learned for the first time that his mother had been desperately ill. Martin now admits he was embarrassed, but he showed no reluctance to engage in a public reconciliation. About all he can say now is, "It's wonderful. She's great."

With the excitement wearing off, Miss Gray is able to recount why she and her boy have been estranged all these years.

"My husband and I separated shortly before Martin was born in 1914," said the shimmy artist, still amazingly beautiful for her years (approximately late 50s). "Shortly after he was born I went into show business. This required a lot of traveling. I just didn't want him around the theater."

"So I left him with my foster parents. I saw him whenever I played Milwaukee, but we never very close.

"Also, my foster parents tried to poison his mind against me. They were from the old country, Poland, and they believed that anyone connected with the theater was going to hell.

"One of the reasons I kept working was because I wanted Martin to have an education. So I saw to it that enough money was provided for him to go to military schools."

During the Roaring '20s, Miss Gray became the toast of Broadway, the continent and a star of movies with her unique wiggling dance style. She earned over three million dollars.

Where did it go?
"Well, I had three husbands, and you know they're very expensive," she said. "I lost a million and a half dollars in the crash alone."

Miss Gray faded from sight in the late 40s when she was fighting for her life against tuberculosis in Colorado. She conquered the disease and started hitting the comeback trail. One of her first dates was in Milwaukee, where she met her son in 1951 for the first time in seven years.

"I was a little hurt because he had never written me when I was in Colorado," she recalls.

"Martin had become a musician. I think he wanted me to help him in his career. But whenever I asked him to perform for me, he would freeze up."

But all that is over now. Miss Gray has been happily showing the sights to her family. She hadn't seen her grandson Tommy since he was 5. He is now 17.

Miss Gray said the Edwards show has given new impetus to her touring career. She will return to the Turnabout Theater for an extended engagement.

Adenauer Bloc Claims Win In Election

BONN, Germany, June 28 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's supporters claimed a fresh mandate today from the German people for his pro-American foreign policy following the nation's first political test of 1954.

But the opposition Socialists claimed Adenauer's Christian Democrats suffered a political setback in the election yesterday of a new 200-member parliament in the state of North Rhine-Westphalia, home of the industrial Ruhr.

On the fact the Christian Democrats and their partners in the coalition state government, the Zentrum (Centrist) party, fell two seats short of an absolute majority.

To increase their voting strength of 90 Christian Democrats deputies and 9 Centrists, Adenauer's party was expected to enlarge the coalition to include some of the Free Democrats, their partner in the national governing coalition who won 25 seats in the state parliament.

The Christian Democrats rolled up 2,855,672 votes, or 41.3 percent of the total of 6,921,739 valid ballots.

The Socialists, bitter opponents of Adenauer's European unity policy, polled 2,357,069 votes (34.5 percent) and won 76 seats. The Communists, who had held 12 seats, lost them all.

Most foreign observers here agreed that the election showed this:

Windstorm Stops Picnic; No One Hurt

MILLSTADT, Ill. (AP)—A violent windstorm broke up a big picnic, toppled trees and damaged rooftops yesterday in this town of 1,500, but no one was seriously injured.

More than 400 persons attending the picnic at the American Legion Park here scattered in all directions as the storm uprooted trees and smashed concession stands and tables.

Tony Kleine, chairman of the picnic, reported that a number of women and children who had taken shelter in a pavilion began screaming as trees toppled in the area.

A number of chimneys and roofs also were damaged by the storm, accompanied by hail and a brief downpour, which also hit in scattered parts of the St. Louis area about 20 miles northwest of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Biegler and their two children of East St. Louis escaped injury when the wind felled a 50-foot tree across the top of the car in which they were riding at Millstadt.

The scattered showers brought only brief respite from the heat wave, dropping the temperature about 10 degrees temporarily. The mercury soared to 98 degrees in St. Louis and to 100 at the St. Louis Municipal Airport northwest of the city.

In St. Louis County, where a serious water shortage developed over the weekend, the situation yesterday was reported improved but water pressure remained low in Webster Groves. Many residents there were without water Saturday and an emergency ordinance restricting water usage was passed at a special meeting of the Webster Groves City Council.

Negro Leader Promises Fight For Court Order

DALLAS (AP)—The leader of the Negroes' anti-segregation battle has indicated his organization will stand for no trifling with the Supreme Court's school decision.

Thurgood Marshall says the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will go to court against local school boards which balk.

Marshall arrived yesterday for the annual national convention of the NAACP in this segregated city. As special counsel for the NAACP, he was a powerful factor in the May 17 decision of the Supreme Court which outlawed segregation in public schools.

"While the governors want to circumvent the Supreme Court," he said, "we are going to circumvent the governors."

"Since the Supreme Court spoke, there is no use listening to anybody else."

"In suits, if they have to be filed, the school boards will be the defendants."

However, he would not deny pro-segregation governors the right to speak out against the court's ruling. And he said he favors court action to compel admission of Negro students to schools only as a final resort.

Today, Marshall was discussing with other Negro lawyers how to handle any possible suits. The lawyers will confer with state NAACP presidents tomorrow, opening day of the six-day convention. About 700 delegates are expected.

The lawyer said the convention will consider other fields in which it will fight segregation. He mentioned transportation, housing, recreation and employment. But, he added, "schools are most important to me."

Appreciation Days a Success

Over 1100 Ride Buses Free and 1360 Free Swims Enjoyed; Bargains Are Hot

The Appreciation Days promotion, Friday and Saturday, in which about 60 merchants of the downtown area participated, was a real success. Despite the heat, the crowds were good and the sales about even with last year. Some of the merchants didn't quite make their quota and some did much better.

The merchants, according to Harry Naugel, chairman of special promotions of the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, were pleased with the way the people of the area responded to the many sales offered them in appreciation of their trade during the year.

Cooperating with the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, of which George E. Dugan Sr. is director and Albert Zurcher Jr., is chairman, were Mayor Julian H. Bagby and the City Council, who permitted the sacks to be put over the parking meters for the two days so that the customers might have free parking downtown. The business people and their employees went along well on this as there was always parking space available during the two days.

Marvin Howard donated bus service both mornings to the downtown section and Roscoe Thomas, manager of the city buses, reported that between 1100 and 1200 people rode the buses free to town the two mornings. Mr. Thomas went on to say that even with the free rides the bus company had a better day both days than usual.

The youngsters under 16 took advantage of the free swims, too. Through the cooperation of the park board, of which John Vandekamp is chairman, the merchants gave tickets for free swims with purchases made during the week. Gerhardt Jaeger, manager at the Liberty Park pool, reported that of the 1,297 in the pool on Friday, 648 were free swims, and of the 1,376 on Saturday, 717 were free swims, making a total of 1,365 free swims during the two days.

Stevens Says Army's Anti-Red Program Gets Good Results

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens says the Army is getting "excellent results" from its program of guarding against Communists.

Stevens, here for a nationwide conference of his civilian aides, told reporters Sunday: "The task of guarding against Communists has to be a continuing process in an organization as large as the Army. There are some improvements in our program that can be made from time to time. We know we are getting excellent results already."

The civilian aides confer on Army matters such as security and community relations today. Each state and Army area provides the secretary of the Army with a civilian adviser.

Senate Group Opens Full Scale Check-Up On Housing Scandals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee today opens a full scale probe of alleged multi-million dollar housing scandals. The inquiry may run through the rest of this year.

The housing scandals, first aired by the White House April 12, have already brought the ouster of a dozen or more officials, most of whom held top jobs in the Federal Housing Administration.

The charges centered on two aspects of the government's many-sided housing program: (1) alleged "windfall" profits by post-World War II builders of apartment projects which aggregated up to a half billion dollars, according to an estimate of Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), banking committee chairman; and (2) abuses in the still-operating home repair program by slick operators working with government-insured credit.

Eclipse Will Be Seen Over US Wednesday

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A total eclipse of the sun—one of nature's rare and dramatic phenomena—will race across parts of the United States and several other nations next Wednesday.

In a period of about three hours, the shadow of the moon will move from northeastern Nebraska across the top of the globe to India.

The eerie, fleeting shadow will plunge into the darkness of total eclipse a 70-mile-wide strip in Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Then it will sweep through Canada, Greenland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, and finally leave the earth in India.

According to Dr. Willem J. Luyten, chairman of the University of Minnesota astronomy department, United States residents east of a line from Brownsville, Tex., through Salt Lake City, Utah, to Seattle, Wash., will see at the least a partial eclipse if they get out of bed early enough. The eclipse will start at O'Neill in northeastern Nebraska at precisely 5:07.07 a.m. CST.

Minneapolis and St. Paul will be the only major U.S. cities in the area of total eclipse. In New York, the moon will cover 74 per cent of the sun at the peak. St. Louis 82 per cent, Denver 91 per cent, Atlanta 71 per cent, Washington 75 per cent, and Tallahassee, Fla., 66 per cent.

Many Westerners will miss the show entirely. There will be nothing to see for people west of the Brownsville-Seattle line because the sun will not have risen in that area by the time the eclipse is over.

Indochina Peace Talks Have Been Postponed, Will Resume Tuesday

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The French high command announced today French Union-Vietnam cease-fire talks have been postponed until Tuesday. The two sides were scheduled to meet today on technical details of a possible Indochina armistice.

The terse announcement gave no reason for the last-minute delay. The command said yesterday the first talks in Indochina between military representatives of the two sides would be held at a village 25 miles north of Hanoi.

Six officers of the Communist-led rebels were to meet with three French and three Vietnamese officers to examine technical details that would have to accompany a cease-fire.

West Germany To Field New Wehrmacht To Bolster West

By BRACK CURRY
BONN, Germany, June 28 (AP) — Disarmed West Germany is prepared to field a hard-hitting new Wehrmacht of 500,000 men within the next two years to bolster Western defenses against Russia.

But action by France and Italy on the languishing European Defense Community project is required before the Germans can start building up this force.

All preparations have been completed—on paper. If EDC is finally ratified, the National Defense Commission in Bonn can press a button and the wheels of the new German military organization will start to turn.

The plans call for 12 divisions, six of them infantry, four armored and two motorized, plus an air force of 1,500 planes and 80,000 men, and a 20,000-man navy.

The "Baby Luftwaffe" would consist of jet fighters and fighter-bombers and reconnaissance and transport planes. Its functions are to be limited to air interception and support of ground troops. It would have no strategic mission.

The navy is to be restricted to coastal duties such as keeping harbors and shipping lanes open along the German coasts. It would consist mainly of swift patrol craft, motor torpedo boats, escort vessels, minesweepers and mine-layers.

Western military leaders agree that this German force is necessary to implement NATO's forward strategy in Europe. Some say the West cannot hope to hold a line in Western Europe against a massive Russian attack without this German support.

But German participation in European defense would mean

Loses Ring in Swim, Gets It After 23 Years

CLINTON, N. C. (AP) — Dr. J. M. Chestnutt didn't really expect to get back the ring he lost while bathing in White Lake near here.

But while diving for sand, 11-year-old Claudia Herring brought up the ring in a handful.

Dr. Chestnutt's name was on the ring, so, of course, he got it back — after 23 years.

Will Mahoney Will Appear In State Fair Musical Revue

Will Mahoney, internationally known exponent of dancing, music and comedy, will be one of a bevy of headline entertainers of a musical revue to be presented at the Missouri State Fair, which starts Saturday, Aug. 21, and runs through Sunday, Aug. 29.

His dexterity in tap dancing on a xylophone while he, at the same time, beats out stirring tunes with his feet, has made Mahoney a familiar personality in theatres and music halls all over North America and Europe and even down under in Australia.

While playing the famous London Palladium, Mahoney was honored with a command performance before the King of England. He has often played New York's Palace Theatre, the goal of all performers, and while in Australia, he played a starring role in the famous legitimate play "You Can't Take It With You." Also numbered among his accomplishments are top roles in a number of Broadway musicals.

His feat of dancing on the xylophone is classed as one of the most strenuous acts in show business and, as a result, he trains some reviewers as unsuitable for the young actress.

Miss Truman told reporters her theatrical schedule will not allow her to visit her sick father in Kansas City. She talked with her mother today and was told Mr. Truman had a "good night."

The ex-President recently underwent an operation for removal of his gall bladder and appendix.
